Speaking test completo

Hoja 02 · Part 2: la vida local · Part 3: el tiempo libre y el trabajo · dificultad 2 de 6

Unos 19 minutos con el MP3 SPK_Practica_02.mp3 · sin consultar la teoría

Cómo hacer el test

1. Ten delante solo el material del candidato (págs. 2 y 3). Las preguntas de la Part 1, las instrucciones de la Part 2 y las de la discusión solo se oyen.
2. Pon a grabar el móvil y reproduce el MP3 de principio a fin, sin pausar. Los silencios están cronometrados; el Thank you del interlocutor marca el final de cada respuesta.
3. Part 2: empiezas tú cada fase. El compañero interviene en momentos fijos y no te escucha (§1.4): habla unos 20 segundos por turno y reacciona a lo que dice cuando termine.
4. Part 3: respondes las dos tarjetas y las dos preguntas de seguimiento, y luego las seis de la discusión.
5. Al día siguiente, corrige con la hoja de autocorrección y solo después mira las soluciones (§8.1).

Part 3 · Tarjetas

TARJETA A

How has technology changed the way people use their free time?

- communication
- entertainment
- rest

TARJETA B

Why do some people find it hard to switch off from work?

- ambition
- technology
- expectations

En el examen cada candidato recibe solo su tarjeta. Aquí haces las dos, una detrás de otra.

Guion del MP3

Transcripción completa. Los silencios llevan entre corchetes lo que te tocaba hacer en ellos; las intervenciones del compañero van numeradas como en la tabla de la Part 2.

Minuto	Quién	Texto
0:08	Interlocutor	Good morning. My name is Sarah Hall, and this is my colleague, David Price. And your name is?
0:16		[silencio · 4 s · tu nombre]
0:20	Interlocutor	Thank you. First of all, we'd like to know something about you. Where do you live?
0:28		[silencio · 15 s · tu respuesta]
0:43	Interlocutor	And are you working or studying at the moment?
0:46		[silencio · 15 s · tu respuesta]
1:01	Interlocutor	What kind of things do you like to read in your spare time?
1:05		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
1:35	Interlocutor	Do you prefer to plan your free time or to see what happens?
1:39		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
2:09	Interlocutor	Which place that you have visited would you most like to go back to?
2:14		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
2:44	Interlocutor	Thank you.
2:45	Interlocutor	Now, in this part of the test, you're going to do something together. Here are some pictures of everyday life in different places.
2:55	Interlocutor	First, I'd like you to look at pictures A and D and talk together about what these pictures suggest about everyday life in the places where they were taken. You have about a minute for this, so don't worry if I interrupt you.
3:11		[silencio · 25 s · empiezas tú]
3:36	Compañero 1	I think picture A says far more about everyday life. Mending nets isn't a show — it's just work that has to be done. The musician I'm less sure about. He might well be playing for the tourists rather than for the locals.
3:52		[silencio · 19 s · tu turno]
4:11	Interlocutor	Thank you. Now look at all the pictures. I'd like you to imagine that a travel company is producing a brochure for people who want to experience local life rather than famous tourist sights.
4:26	Interlocutor	Talk together about how well each of these pictures reflects that idea. Then decide which two pictures should be used in the brochure. You have about three minutes to talk about this.
4:40		[silencio · 25 s · empiezas tú]
5:05	Compañero 2	What about the dancers, though? It's colourful, it's full of energy — that's exactly what people imagine when they think of local culture.
5:14		[silencio · 30 s · tu turno]

Minuto	Quién	Texto
5:43	Compañero 3	You know what I'd do? I'd put the Mona Lisa crowd on the very first page, with a big red cross through it. It would say everything about the trip in one picture!
5:56		[silencio · 30 s · tu turno]
6:26	Compañero 4	So, if I've understood you correctly, you think tourists shouldn't bother visiting famous places at all? Not even once?
6:33		[silencio · 30 s · tu turno]
7:02	Compañero 5	OK, I think we're nearly out of time. I'd go for the market and the dancers. Shall we agree on that?
7:11		[silencio · 30 s · tu turno: cerrad la decisión]
7:40	Interlocutor	Thank you. Can I have the booklet, please?
7:44	Interlocutor	Now, in this part of the test, you're each going to talk on your own for about two minutes. You need to listen while your partner is speaking, because you'll be asked to comment afterwards.
7:58	Interlocutor	So, I'm going to give you a card with a question written on it, and I'd like you to tell us what you think. There are also some ideas on the card for you to use if you like. All right? Here is your card. It's card A. Remember, you have about two minutes to talk before we join in.
8:20		[silencio · 10 s · preparas]
8:30	Interlocutor	Would you like to begin now?
8:32		[silencio · 120 s · long turn A]
10:32	Interlocutor	Thank you.
10:33	Interlocutor	Do you think people today are worse at doing nothing than they used to be?
10:38		[silencio · 45 s · pregunta de seguimiento]
11:23	Interlocutor	Thank you.
11:24	Interlocutor	Now, it's your turn to be given a question. Here is your card. It's card B. Remember, you have about two minutes to tell us what you think, and there are some ideas on the card for you to use if you like. All right?
11:41		[silencio · 10 s · preparas]
11:51	Interlocutor	Would you like to begin now?
11:53		[silencio · 120 s · long turn B]
13:53	Interlocutor	Thank you.
13:54	Interlocutor	Should employers be allowed to contact their staff outside working hours?
13:59		[silencio · 45 s · pregunta de seguimiento]
14:44	Interlocutor	Thank you.
14:45	Interlocutor	Now, to finish the test, we're going to talk about time in general.
14:50	Interlocutor	Do you think people today have less free time than their grandparents did?
14:55		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
15:35	Interlocutor	Is being busy a sign of success?
15:38		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
16:18	Interlocutor	Some people say that boredom is good for us. What do you think?
16:23		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
17:03	Interlocutor	Would a four-day working week be a good idea?

Minuto	Quién	Texto
17:06		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
17:46	Interlocutor	Why does time seem to pass more quickly as we get older?
17:51		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
18:31	Interlocutor	Is it ever possible to waste time usefully?
18:34		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
19:14	Interlocutor	Thank you. That is the end of the test.

Part 1 · Respuestas posibles

Respuesta, razón o caso y matiz, en 20–30 segundos (§2).

Pregunta	Una respuesta posible
What kind of things do you like to read in your spare time?	Mostly non-fiction, oddly enough — history and popular science. I read so much for my degree that novels tend to feel like more work, whereas a good history book is pure escape. I do try to read one novel a month, though, just so I don't forget how.
Do you prefer to plan your free time or to see what happens?	I'm a planner by nature, I'm afraid. If I leave a Saturday completely open, I usually end up wasting it. Mind you, some of the best evenings I can remember were the ones nobody had planned, so I'm trying to leave a bit more to chance.
Which place that you have visited would you most like to go back to?	Probably Lisbon. I was only there for a long weekend, so it's all a bit of a blur, but I remember thinking it was the first city I'd visited where I could genuinely imagine living. I'd like to go back and find out whether that was just the sunshine talking.

Part 2 · Fase 1

Pregunta: What these pictures suggest about everyday life in the places where they were taken (fotos A y D). Hay que especular, no describir (§5.2).

Foto	Qué se ve	Qué se puede especular
A	Pescadores sentados en el suelo de un puerto, cosiendo redes.	Que es trabajo de todos los días, no un espectáculo; que lo hacen juntos y charlando; que el oficio pasa de unos a otros.
D	Un músico canta y toca en una calle; detrás, un hombre en silla de ruedas y una paseante.	Que es un sitio habitual para él; que el hombre de detrás es un vecino, no un turista; que la calle es también lugar de reunión.

Cómo puede sonar: Picture A looks as though it could have been taken on any day of the week — there's nothing staged about it. · I'd hazard a guess the man in the wheelchair is a regular, which makes me think the musician plays there for the neighbours rather than for visitors.

Part 2 · Fase 2

Contexto: I'd like you to imagine that a travel company is producing a brochure for people who want to experience local life rather than famous tourist sights. Tarea: Talk together about how well each of these pictures reflects that idea. Then decide which two pictures should be used in the brochure. Empieza fijando el criterio (§5.3).

Foto	Qué ofrece o qué dice	Para la decisión
A	Autenticidad: un oficio real que no se representa para nadie.	A favor: lo más genuino de las cinco. En contra: el visitante solo puede mirar; ¿qué experiencia le ofrece?
B	La vida cotidiana que todo el mundo comparte: comprar, comer, regatear.	A favor: el visitante puede participar, no solo mirar. En contra: casi demasiado común.
C	Color, energía y cultura propia.	A favor: la más llamativa. En contra: es un día de fiesta, no la vida diaria; puede vender folclore como si fuera lo cotidiano.
D	La calle como espacio de encuentro, con música que no está en ningún programa.	A favor: espontánea y cercana. En contra: ambigua; puede leerse como un espectáculo para turistas.
E	Justo lo contrario de lo que promete el folleto: el turismo de monumento y multitud.	Solo serviría como contraste («lo que no verás»), y es arriesgado abrir un folleto con lo que no se ofrece.

Una decisión posible: B y A si el criterio es la vida diaria auténtica; B y D si se quiere algo en lo que el visitante pueda participar. C es la tentación (la más vistosa) y E solo serviría como contraste.

Lenguaje para esta tarea: It depends whether the brochure is selling things to watch or things to do. · It's striking, but it's a festival, not everyday life. · A and B have that in common, whereas … · So we're agreed on B; it's the second one we need to settle.

Las intervenciones del compañero

Cada intervención está pensada para provocar una reacción de §6. La reacción propuesta es una entre varias posibles: lo que cuenta es recoger lo que ha dicho antes de añadir lo tuyo (§6.2).

Nº	El compañero dice	Qué provoca	Una reacción posible
1	I think picture A says far more about everyday life. Mending nets isn't a show — it's just work that has to be done. The musician I'm less sure about. He might well be playing for the tourists rather than for the locals.	Una lectura discutible de la foto D: recógela y especula con otro detalle. §6.2 · §5.2	You may be right, although the man in the wheelchair behind him doesn't look like a tourist. I'd hazard a guess this is a regular spot.
2	What about the dancers, though? It's colourful, it's full of energy — that's exactly what people imagine when they think of local culture.	Una foto atractiva pero discutible para el criterio: concede su mérito y objeta. §6.3	I'll give them that — it's by far the most striking. But it's a festival, not everyday life, so it might give visitors the wrong idea.
3	You know what I'd do? I'd put the Mona Lisa crowd on the very first page, with a big red cross through it. It would say everything about the trip in one picture!	Una idea ingeniosa pero exagerada: concede lo que tiene de bueno y modérala. §6.3 · §6.4	I'll grant you that it would make the point — but let's not get carried away. A brochure that opens with what you won't see is a risky way to sell a holiday.

Nº	El compañero dice	Qué provoca	Una reacción posible
4	So, if I've understood you correctly, you think tourists shouldn't bother visiting famous places at all? Not even once?	Una generalización que no has hecho: recházala y vuelve al criterio de la tarea. §6.3 · §6.4	Nothing of the sort. I'm only saying that this brochure is aimed at people who want something else.
5	OK, I think we're nearly out of time. I'd go for the market and the dancers. Shall we agree on that?	Una propuesta a medias aceptable: acepta una parte y negocia o cierra la otra. §6.6 · §6.3	The market, yes — I'll drink to that. The dancers I'm less sure about, so we may have to differ on the second one, but if we had to settle, I'd go for the fishermen.

Part 3 · Tarjeta A

How has technology changed the way people use their free time? (communication · entertainment · rest)

Decisión	Plan de diez segundos (§3.2)
Operación	How has … changed: efectos de distinto signo (§3.1).
Postura	Más que cambiar lo que hacemos, ha cambiado la textura del tiempo libre: llega en fragmentos y siempre hay algo con qué llenarlos.
Línea 1	El entretenimiento infinito: nunca hay un momento vacío (entertainment, rest).
Línea 2	La comunicación, con dos caras: cercanía y disponibilidad permanente (communication).
Contrapunto	También abre posibilidades: aprender, encontrar aficiones minoritarias.
Cierre	No ha reducido el tiempo libre: lo ha llenado; el reto es dejar parte vacía (idea propia).

LONG TURN MODELO · 274 PALABRAS · UNOS DOS MINUTOS A 145 PALABRAS POR MINUTO

1 I think the biggest change isn't so much in what we do with our free time as in its texture, if that makes sense. Free time used to come in blocks — an evening, a Sunday afternoon — and now it tends to come in fragments, because there's always something to fill even the smallest gap.

2 Take entertainment, for a start. A generation ago, if there was nothing good on television, you got bored and went for a walk, or read a book, or rang a friend. Now the supply is effectively infinite. You can watch, listen to or scroll through something at any moment, and the result, I'd say, is that we rarely experience a moment that's genuinely empty. And boredom, which used to push people into doing something creative, has almost disappeared.

3 Communication has changed things too, though in a more mixed way. On the one hand, it's never been easier to keep in touch with friends who live in another city or another country. On the other, being permanently reachable means that free time is never entirely free. There's always a message to answer or a group chat to keep up with, and that can start to feel like a second job.

4 Admittedly, it would be unfair to make it all sound negative. People now learn the guitar from online videos or find others who share some obscure hobby, which simply wasn't possible before. In that sense, technology has widened our options enormously.

5 So, on balance, I'd say technology hasn't really reduced our free time; it has filled it. And perhaps the real challenge now is to leave some of it deliberately empty.

Tramo	Tiempo	Qué hace y con qué recursos
1	0:00–0:22	Redefine la pregunta con una imagen propia (bloques frente a fragmentos) que sostiene todo el long turn. isn't so much … as … (§4.6), if that makes sense (§4.4).
2	0:22–0:55	Primera línea con un contraste antes y ahora (§3.5, perspectiva del tiempo). Take …, for a start (§4.2), effectively infinite, inciso I'd say (§4.6).
3	0:55–1:24	Segunda línea, con efectos de signo opuesto. On the one hand … On the other … y juego de palabras free time is never entirely free (§4.1: detalle y flexibilidad).
4	1:24–1:41	Contrapunto que corrige el tono del propio discurso. Admittedly (§4.3), some obscure hobby.
5	1:41–1:53	Cierre con la idea propia en forma de paradoja. on balance (§4.2), hasn't … reduced …; it has filled it (§4.5, elipsis).

Pregunta de seguimiento: Do you think people today are worse at doing nothing than they used to be? Probablemente sí: el aburrimiento se ha vuelto evitable, así que no se practica. Retoma la idea del long turn sin repetirla: It comes back to that idea of empty time … (§3.7)

Part 3 · Tarjeta B

Why do some people find it hard to switch off from work? (ambition · technology · expectations)

Decisión	Plan de diez segundos (§3.2)
Operación	Why: causas, jerarquizadas (§3.1).
Postura	Porque el trabajo ha perdido sus paredes: el límite ya no viene dado, hay que construirlo.
Línea 1	La tecnología lo hace posible: el mismo móvil para todo (technology).
Línea 2	Las expectativas lo explican: la cultura del compromiso y la identidad ligada al trabajo (expectations, ambition). Más importante.
Contrapunto	No siempre es un problema: a quien le apasiona su trabajo le cuesta desconectar y no sufre.
Cierre	El interruptor ya no viene de serie; hay que instalarlo y eso exige disciplina (idea propia).

LONG TURN MODELO · 285 PALABRAS · UNOS DOS MINUTOS A 145 PALABRAS POR MINUTO

1 I suppose the simplest answer is that work used to have walls and now it doesn't. When my grandparents finished a shift, the work stayed in the factory or the office. Today, for a lot of people, it follows them home in their pocket.

2 That's the technological side of it, and I think it's the most obvious factor. If your emails arrive on the same device you use to talk to your friends, there's no clear moment when work ends. You check your phone for something else entirely, and suddenly you're thinking about a meeting you've got on Monday. The boundary simply isn't there any more.

3 But technology only makes it possible; it doesn't explain why people actually do it. For that, I think you have to look at expectations — both other people's and our own. In a lot of workplaces there's an unspoken assumption that the committed employee is the one who answers at ten at night. And for many people, their job has become a large part of who they are, so stepping away from it can feel almost like losing a bit of themselves.

4 Mind you, I'm not sure it's always a problem. Some people find it hard to switch off because they genuinely love what they do, and for them the line between work and pleasure is quite blurred, in a good way. Telling them to switch off would be a bit like telling a musician to stop humming.

5 So, to come back to the question, I'd say people find it hard because the off switch is no longer built into the day. If you want one, you have to build it yourself — and that takes a surprising amount of discipline.

Tramo	Tiempo	Qué hace y con qué recursos
1	0:00–0:18	Apertura con una metáfora que adelanta la postura y un contraste con el pasado (§3.5).
2	0:18–0:44	Primera línea, presentada como la más obvia, con un caso cotidiano que la hace visible (§3.4).
3	0:44–1:17	Segunda línea, jerarquizada: separa lo que hace posible algo de lo que lo explica. only makes it possible; it doesn't explain why (§4.6), an unspoken assumption, stepping away from it.
4	1:17–1:41	Contrapunto que limita la propia tesis. Mind you (§4.3), in a good way.
5	1:41–1:58	Cierre que retoma la metáfora del principio (patrón organizativo, §4.1). to come back to the question (§4.2).

Pregunta de seguimiento: Should employers be allowed to contact their staff outside working hours? Matiza: en emergencias, sí; como costumbre, no. Algunos países ya regulan el derecho a desconectar; la norma ayuda porque quita la presión individual. (§3.7)

Part 3 · Discusión: time

Respuestas de 30–45 segundos: postura, razón y caso, sin convertirlas en otro long turn (§6.7).

Pregunta	Ideas	Cómo puede sonar
Do you think people today have less free time than their grandparents did?	Quizá más horas libres sobre el papel, pero más fragmentadas y menos libres de verdad; depende mucho del trabajo y del país. §4.6	On paper, probably not — but I suspect it feels less free, which may matter more.
Is being busy a sign of success?	Se ha convertido en símbolo de estatus, pero el verdadero lujo es disponer de tu tiempo. §4.3	It's become a kind of status symbol, but if anything, the real luxury is having time to spare.
Some people say that boredom is good for us. What do you think?	Sí, en dosis: obliga a pensar y a inventar; pero el aburrimiento crónico no tiene nada de creativo. §6.7 · §6.3	Up to a point. A bit of boredom forces you to think; a lot of it just wears you down.
Would a four-day working week be a good idea?	Funciona donde se mide el resultado y no las horas; en sectores con atención al público es más difícil. Distingue entre trabajos. §3.5	It would work in some jobs far better than in others, so I'd be wary of a one-size-fits-all rule.
Why does time seem to pass more quickly as we get older?	Hay menos primeras veces: la rutina deja pocos recuerdos, y en retrospectiva el tiempo sin recuerdos parece corto. §3.4	I think it's because there are fewer firsts — routine doesn't leave many memories behind.
Is it ever possible to waste time usefully?	Sí: muchas ideas llegan cuando no se busca nada; el problema es que no se puede programar la inspiración. §3.5	I'd say some of the most useful time I've spent was time I thought I was wasting.
