Speaking test completo

Hoja 03 · Part 2: un siglo de trabajo · Part 3: la influencia de los demás · dificultad 3 de 6

Unos 19 minutos con el MP3 SPK_Practica_03.mp3 · sin consultar la teoría

Cómo hacer el test

1. Ten delante solo el material del candidato (págs. 2 y 3). Las preguntas de la Part 1, las instrucciones de la Part 2 y las de la discusión solo se oyen.
2. Pon a grabar el móvil y reproduce el MP3 de principio a fin, sin pausar. Los silencios están cronometrados; el Thank you del interlocutor marca el final de cada respuesta.
3. Part 2: empiezas tú cada fase. El compañero interviene en momentos fijos y no te escucha (§1.4): habla unos 20 segundos por turno y reacciona a lo que dice cuando termine.
4. Part 3: respondes las dos tarjetas y las dos preguntas de seguimiento, y luego las seis de la discusión.
5. Al día siguiente, corrige con la hoja de autocorrección y solo después mira las soluciones (§8.1).

Part 3 · Tarjetas

TARJETA A

To what extent are people's opinions shaped by those around them?

- family
- friends
- social media

TARJETA B

Why are some people more willing to take advice than others?

- experience
- pride
- trust

En el examen cada candidato recibe solo su tarjeta. Aquí haces las dos, una detrás de otra.

Hoja de autocorrección

Escucha la grabación al día siguiente y marca la rúbrica antes de mirar las soluciones (preguntas completas en SPK_Teoria_v1 §8.2). Guion del MP3

Transcripción completa. Los silencios llevan entre corchetes lo que te tocaba hacer en ellos; las intervenciones del compañero van numeradas como en la tabla de la Part 2.

Minuto	Quién	Texto
0:08	Interlocutor	Good morning. My name is Sarah Hall, and this is my colleague, David Price. And your name is?
0:16		[silencio · 4 s · tu nombre]
0:20	Interlocutor	Thank you. First of all, we'd like to know something about you. Where do you live?
0:27		[silencio · 15 s · tu respuesta]
0:42	Interlocutor	And are you working or studying at the moment?
0:45		[silencio · 15 s · tu respuesta]
1:00	Interlocutor	What do you usually do to relax after a busy day?
1:04		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
1:34	Interlocutor	Who has had the most influence on the person you are today?
1:38		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
2:08	Interlocutor	Do you see yourself living in the same place in ten years' time?
2:13		[silencio · 30 s · tu respuesta]
2:43	Interlocutor	Thank you.
2:43	Interlocutor	Now, in this part of the test, you're going to do something together. Here are some pictures of different places of work.
2:52	Interlocutor	First, I'd like you to look at pictures A and B and talk together about what it might have been like to work in these places. You have about a minute for this, so don't worry if I interrupt you.
3:06		[silencio · 25 s · empiezas tú]
3:31	Compañero 1	Picture A must have been exhausting — rows of women sewing for hours, probably in silence. Although, when you look at the call centre, I'm not sure that much has changed. It's the same rows, only with headsets instead of needles.
3:47		[silencio · 20 s · tu turno]
4:06	Interlocutor	Thank you. Now look at all the pictures. I'd like you to imagine that a museum is planning an exhibition about how work has changed over the last hundred years. These pictures will be used in the exhibition.
4:22	Interlocutor	Talk together about what each picture shows about the way work has changed. Then decide which picture should be used on the poster advertising the exhibition. You have about three minutes to talk about this.
4:38		[silencio · 25 s · empiezas tú]
5:03	Compañero 2	For the poster, I'd go for the robots, without a doubt. That's where work is heading, and a museum ought to show the future, not just the past.
5:14		[silencio · 28 s · tu turno]

Minuto	Quién	Texto
5:42	Compañero 3	Mind you, the woman working from home is the real revolution. No commute, no boss looking over her shoulder — I'd say she's got the perfect life!
5:52		[silencio · 28 s · tu turno]
6:20	Compañero 4	I have to say, I think you're being a bit romantic about the old days. Factory work a hundred years ago was no picnic.
6:30		[silencio · 28 s · tu turno]
6:58	Compañero 5	Right, we've got about thirty seconds left, I'd say — no, I tell a lie, less than that. Shall we put the factory and the robots side by side? Then and now.
7:10		[silencio · 28 s · tu turno: cerrad la decisión]
7:38	Interlocutor	Thank you. Can I have the booklet, please?
7:42	Interlocutor	Now, in this part of the test, you're each going to talk on your own for about two minutes. You need to listen while your partner is speaking, because you'll be asked to comment afterwards.
7:56	Interlocutor	So, I'm going to give you a card with a question written on it, and I'd like you to tell us what you think. There are also some ideas on the card for you to use if you like. All right? Here is your card. It's card A. Remember, you have about two minutes to talk before we join in.
8:17		[silencio · 10 s · preparas]
8:27	Interlocutor	Would you like to begin now?
8:29		[silencio · 120 s · long turn A]
10:29	Interlocutor	Thank you.
10:30	Interlocutor	Do you think people are more easily influenced now than they were in the past?
10:35		[silencio · 45 s · pregunta de seguimiento]
11:20	Interlocutor	Thank you.
11:21	Interlocutor	Now, it's your turn to be given a question. Here is your card. It's card B. Remember, you have about two minutes to tell us what you think, and there are some ideas on the card for you to use if you like. All right?
11:38		[silencio · 10 s · preparas]
11:48	Interlocutor	Would you like to begin now?
11:49		[silencio · 120 s · long turn B]
13:49	Interlocutor	Thank you.
13:50	Interlocutor	Who do you usually turn to when you need advice, and why?
13:54		[silencio · 45 s · pregunta de seguimiento]
14:39	Interlocutor	Thank you.
14:40	Interlocutor	Now, to finish the test, we're going to talk about influence in general.
14:46	Interlocutor	Who has more influence on young people today: their parents or the people they follow online?
14:52		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
15:32	Interlocutor	Is it possible to think completely independently?
15:36		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
16:16	Interlocutor	Should advertising aimed at children be banned?
16:20		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
17:00	Interlocutor	Why do people follow trends even when they don't particularly like them?

18:31	Interlocutor	Can one person really change the way a whole society thinks?
18:36		[silencio · 40 s · tu respuesta]
19:16	Interlocutor	Thank you. That is the end of the test.

Part 1 · Respuestas posibles

Respuesta, razón o caso y matiz, en 20–30 segundos (§2).

Pregunta	Una respuesta posible
What do you usually do to relax after a busy day?	Something physical, as a rule. If I've spent the whole day at a desk, sitting on a sofa doesn't really feel like rest, so I'll go for a run or at least a long walk. It sounds counter-intuitive, but I come back far less tired than when I left.
Who has had the most influence on the person you are today?	Probably a teacher I had at fourteen, more than anyone in my family. She was the first person who treated my questions as interesting rather than annoying, and I think that changed the way I approached learning altogether. I doubt she has any idea.
Do you see yourself living in the same place in ten years' time?	Honestly, I'd be surprised. Not because I don't like it here, but because the kind of work I'm interested in tends to be concentrated in a few big cities. Mind you, people who say that often end up coming back, so I wouldn't bet on it either way.

Part 2 · Fase 1

Pregunta: What it might have been like to work in these places (fotos A y B). Hay que especular, no describir (§5.2).

Foto	Qué se ve	Qué se puede especular
A	Una fábrica de ropa hacia 1920: filas de mujeres cosiendo; al fondo, un hombre de pie.	Que trabajaban muchas horas, quizá en silencio; que el hombre del fondo es un encargado; que el trabajo era repetitivo pero se hacía junto a compañeras.
B	Un centro de llamadas: filas de cubículos con trabajadores con auriculares.	Que es la fábrica de la era de la información: guion, pantalla, tiempo medido; que se habla todo el día, pero no con quien está al lado.

Cómo puede sonar: I imagine the women in picture A worked very long hours, and the man at the back is presumably there to make sure nobody stops. · What strikes me about the call centre is that everyone is talking all day, but not to the person next to them.

Part 2 · Fase 2

Contexto: I'd like you to imagine that a museum is planning an exhibition about how work has changed over the last hundred years. These pictures will be used in the exhibition. Tarea: Talk together about what each picture shows about the way work has changed. Then decide which picture should be used on the poster advertising the exhibition. Empieza fijando el criterio (§5.3).

Foto	Qué ofrece o qué dice	Para la decisión
A	El trabajo industrial clásico: horario fijo, tarea repetida, vigilancia directa.	A favor: el punto de partida del siglo, inconfundible. En contra: en blanco y negro y sola, solo habla del pasado.
B	La continuidad: cambian las herramientas, no tanto la organización del trabajo.	A favor: la idea más interesante para una exposición, por el parecido con la A. En contra: es una lectura que el público quizá no haga sin ayuda.
C	Autonomía y ningún desplazamiento, a cambio de aislamiento y de que casa y trabajo se mezclen.	A favor: el cambio más reciente y el que más afecta al visitante. En contra: no se ve el trabajo, solo un portátil.
D	La automatización: más producción con menos personas; la pregunta es adónde han ido.	A favor: llamativa, y la ausencia de personas es el mensaje. En contra: una exposición sobre el trabajo humano sin humanos en el cartel.
E	El oficio completo, de principio a fin, que convive con todo lo demás.	A favor: recuerda que no todo ha cambiado. En contra: puede leerse como algo del pasado o de otro lugar, no como presente.

Una decisión posible: A y D juntas (antes y ahora) si el criterio es que el cartel cuente el siglo de un vistazo; B si se quiere provocar con la idea de que el trabajo ha cambiado menos de lo que creemos. C tiene el problema de que no se ve el trabajo.

Lenguaje para esta tarea: It depends whether the poster should show change or continuity. · The call centre is really the factory floor of our time. · If we put A and D side by side, the poster tells the whole story. · That's a neat idea, but would visitors get it?

Las intervenciones del compañero

Cada intervención está pensada para provocar una reacción de §6. La reacción propuesta es una entre varias posibles: lo que cuenta es recoger lo que ha dicho antes de añadir lo tuyo (§6.2).

Nº	El compañero dice	Qué provoca	Una reacción posible
1	Picture A must have been exhausting — rows of women sewing for hours, probably in silence. Although, when you look at the call centre, I'm not sure that much has changed. It's the same rows, only with headsets instead of needles.	Una comparación aguda: recógela con sus palabras y llévala más lejos. §6.2	That's a striking way of putting it — headsets instead of needles. And I suppose the man at the back of picture A has simply been replaced by software that times every call.
2	For the poster, I'd go for the robots, without a doubt. That's where work is heading, and a museum ought to show the future, not just the past.	Una propuesta defendible: concede su fuerza y objeta con el criterio de la tarea. §6.3 · §5.3	I'll grant that it's the most eye-catching, but the exhibition is about the last hundred years, and a poster with no people on it might send the wrong message.

Nº	El compañero dice	Qué provoca	Una reacción posible
3	Mind you, the woman working from home is the real revolution. No commute, no boss looking over her shoulder — I'd say she's got the perfect life!	Un entusiasmo exagerado: modéralo y aporta la otra cara. §6.4	Let's not get carried away — plenty of people who work from home say they miss having colleagues, and the working day has a way of never quite ending.
4	I have to say, I think you're being a bit romantic about the old days. Factory work a hundred years ago was no picnic.	Una crítica a tu postura: reconoce lo que tenga de cierto antes de responder, o recházala si no es lo que has dicho. §6.3	I won't deny it — I may be romanticising it a little. But my point was only that some things, like working side by side, seem to have got lost along the way.
5	Right, we've got about thirty seconds left, I'd say — no, I tell a lie, less than that. Shall we put the factory and the robots side by side? Then and now.	Una propuesta de cierre (y un ejemplo de I tell a lie, §4.4): decidid ya. §6.6 · §6.3	I'll drink to that — then and now says it all. Although if there's room, I'd sneak the call centre in between, just to make people think.

Part 3 · Tarjeta A

To what extent are people's opinions shaped by those around them? (family · friends · social media)

Decisión	Plan de diez segundos (§3.2)
Operación	To what extent: una medida, con el dónde sí y el dónde no (§3.1).
Postura	Mucho más de lo que admitimos, pero moldear no es determinar.
Línea 1	La familia llega primero: heredamos los supuestos antes de poder razonar (family).
Línea 2	Los amigos no convencen: hacen que discrepar cueste; las redes añaden la cifra de la aprobación (friends, social media).
Contrapunto	Las opiniones nacidas de la experiencia directa resisten la presión.
Cierre	La libertad que queda está en elegir de quién te rodeas (idea propia).

LONG TURN MODELO · 295 PALABRAS · UNOS DOS MINUTOS A 145 PALABRAS POR MINUTO

1 I'd say to a much greater extent than most of us would like to admit. We tend to think of our opinions as conclusions we've reached on our own, but if you look at where they actually come from, other people are almost always involved somewhere — a parent, a friend, a voice in a feed.

2 The most obvious influence is the family, simply because it gets there first. Long before we're able to weigh up an argument, we've absorbed a whole set of assumptions — about money, about politics, about what counts as a sensible career. Even people who reject their parents' views are, in a sense, still defined by them, because they're reacting against them.

3 Friends work in a subtler way. It isn't so much that they persuade us as that disagreeing with them has a cost. If everyone around you thinks a certain way, voicing the opposite view means risking a bit of friction, and most of us, most of the time, would rather not. Social media adds something new to this: it doesn't only show us what people believe; it shows us how many of them approve. And that number, whether we like it or not, tells us what is acceptable to say.

4 Admittedly, there are limits to all this. Opinions that come from direct experience — say, of illness, or of living in another country — are remarkably hard to shift, whatever the people around you think. Someone who has been unemployed, for instance, rarely needs persuading about how hard it is to find work.

5 So, to come back to the question, I'd say our opinions are shaped by others to a considerable extent, but not determined by them. And perhaps the freedom we do have lies mainly in choosing whose company we keep.

Tramo	Tiempo	Qué hace y con qué recursos
1	0:00–0:23	Responde la medida en la primera frase y explica por qué la pregunta engaña (§3.2).
2	0:23–0:48	Primera línea: afirma, razona y matiza con una paradoja (quien rechaza a sus padres sigue definido por ellos). simply because it gets there first, in a sense (§4.3).
3	0:48–1:25	Segunda línea, distinta en mecanismo, que funde dos ideas de la tarjeta. It isn't so much that … as that … (§4.6), most of us, most of the time.
4	1:25–1:46	Contrapunto: el dónde no de la pregunta To what extent. Admittedly (§4.3).
5	1:46–2:02	Cierre que distingue dos verbos (shaped / determined) y añade una idea propia (§4.1).

Pregunta de seguimiento: Do you think people are more easily influenced now than they were in the past? No necesariamente más, pero por más fuentes y más rápido; antes la influencia era local y lenta. Recoge una idea del long turn sin repetirla. (§3.7)

Part 3 · Tarjeta B

Why are some people more willing to take advice than others? (experience · pride · trust)

Decisión	Plan de diez segundos (§3.2)
Operación	Why: causas, jerarquizadas (§3.1).
Postura	Depende menos del consejo que de lo que aceptarlo parece decir de uno.
Línea 1	El orgullo: aceptar un consejo es admitir que no sabías; paradoja: los más competentes piden más consejo (pride).
Línea 2	La confianza en quien aconseja, alimentada por la experiencia previa (trust, experience). Más importante.
Contrapunto	No aceptarlo no siempre es vanidad: hay consejos genéricos o malos.
Cierre	Quien acepta consejos no es el débil, sino el que se siente seguro (idea propia).

LONG TURN MODELO · 285 PALABRAS · UNOS DOS MINUTOS A 145 PALABRAS POR MINUTO

1 I think the honest answer is that it has less to do with the advice itself than with what accepting it seems to say about you. Taking someone's advice means admitting, at least implicitly, that they knew something you didn't, and some people find that much harder than others.

2 Pride is the obvious factor here. For someone who's insecure about their position — a new manager, say, or a teenager — accepting advice can feel like a public admission of weakness. Interestingly, it's often the most competent people who ask for advice most readily, precisely because they've got nothing to prove.

3 The second factor is trust, and I'd say it's probably the more important one. We don't really evaluate advice on its merits; we evaluate the person giving it. If I suspect that someone has an interest in what I decide — a salesperson, for instance — I'll discount whatever they tell me, however sensible it is. And experience feeds into this: if you've followed bad advice in the past and paid for it, you become wary. Oddly enough, we often find it easier to take advice from a stranger than from a brother or sister, perhaps because there's no history between us.

4 That said, I don't think unwillingness is always a sign of vanity. A lot of advice is generic, and some of it is simply wrong. A certain amount of scepticism is perfectly healthy, and some of the best decisions people make are the ones they made against everyone's advice.

5 So, all things considered, I'd say people who take advice easily aren't the weak ones, as we sometimes assume. If anything, they tend to be the ones who feel secure enough to admit what they don't know.

Tramo	Tiempo	Qué hace y con qué recursos
1	0:00–0:20	Redefine la pregunta: el problema no es el consejo, sino lo que significa aceptarlo. has less to do with … than with … (§4.6).
2	0:20–0:41	Primera línea con dos casos breves y una paradoja que da detalle (§3.4). Interestingly, precisely because.
3	0:41–1:22	Segunda línea, jerarquizada, con un caso y una consecuencia; funde dos ideas de la tarjeta. We don't really evaluate … ; we evaluate … (§4.6), however sensible it is.
4	1:22–1:43	Contrapunto que defiende a quien no acepta consejos. That said (§4.2), a certain amount of scepticism.
5	1:43–1:58	Cierre que invierte un prejuicio. If anything (§4.3).

Pregunta de seguimiento: Who do you usually turn to when you need advice, and why? Pregunta personal: responde en la primera frase, da una razón ligada al long turn (confianza, falta de interés propio) y añade un matiz: depende del tema. (§3.7)

Part 3 · Discusión: influence

Respuestas de 30–45 segundos: postura, razón y caso, sin convertirlas en otro long turn (§6.7).

Pregunta	Ideas	Cómo puede sonar
Who has more influence on young people today: their parents or the people they follow online?	Los padres en lo profundo (valores, hábitos); internet en lo visible (gustos, aspiraciones). Distingue tipos de influencia. §6.7 · §4.3	It depends what kind of influence we mean: parents shape values, but online figures shape what people want.
Is it possible to think completely independently?	Del todo, no: pensamos con conceptos y lenguaje heredados; sí se puede pensar con más independencia, sabiendo de dónde vienen nuestras ideas. §4.6	Completely, no — we think with words and ideas we didn't invent. But we can be aware of where they come from.
Should advertising aimed at children be banned?	Argumento a favor: los niños no distinguen persuasión de información. En contra: dónde está el límite (patrocinio, influencers). Una postura graduada. §3.5	There's a strong case for restricting it, though I'm not sure an outright ban would be workable.
Why do people follow trends even when they don't particularly like them?	Pertenencia y miedo a quedarse fuera; además, el gusto se forma por exposición: acaba gustando lo que se ve a menudo. §3.4	Partly to belong, I suppose — and partly because we end up liking what we see often enough.
Every generation seems to think the next one is worse. Why might that be?	Nostalgia selectiva (recordamos lo bueno de nuestra juventud) y la sensación de perder el control del mundo que conocíamos. §6.7 · §4.3	I think it says more about the older generation than the younger one — it's nostalgia, really.
Can one person really change the way a whole society thinks?	Una persona puede dar forma a un cambio que ya estaba en marcha; rara vez lo crea de la nada. Ejemplos sin nombres concretos si no se está seguro. §4.6	One person can give a change its voice, but I suspect the change is usually already under way.
