LST-P4 · PRÁCTICA 04

Multiple matching

Hoja 04 · Causas y actitudes abstractas, respuestas en orden inverso · dificultad 4 de 4

10 preguntas (21–30) · 1 punto por pregunta · audio: LST-P4_Practica_04.mp3 · los cinco hablantes suenan seguidos y la serie entera se repite, con las pausas del examen · sin consultar la teoría

You will hear five short extracts in which people are talking about a time when they changed their mind about something they had strongly believed. While you listen, you must complete both tasks.

TASK ONE

For questions 21–25, choose from the list (A–H) what led each speaker to change their mind.

A seeing the effects of their view at first hand

B an argument they were unable to answer

C finding out that the evidence had been misrepresented

D the success of someone they disliked

E a slow build-up of minor doubts

F having to argue the opposite case for work

G a casual remark from a child

H realising they had absorbed the view from a parent

Speaker 1	21
Speaker 2	22
Speaker 3	23
Speaker 4	24
Speaker 5	25

TASK TWO

For questions 26–30, choose from the list (A–H) how each speaker now regards the view they used to hold.

A as something that still has a hold on them

B as an embarrassing display of certainty

C as a source of material for their work

D as reasonable, given what they knew at the time

E as something they can laugh about

F as partly right, but held for the wrong reasons

G with gratitude to the person who challenged it

H as typical of people of their age

Speaker 1	26
Speaker 2	27
Speaker 3	28
Speaker 4	29
Speaker 5	30

Hoja de respuestas

Una letra por casilla; en cada tarea, cada letra se usa una sola vez y sobran tres. 1 punto por acierto; los errores no restan. En el examen en papel se responde en el cuadernillo y al final hay 5 minutos para pasar las respuestas a la hoja.

Hablante	Nº	Task One	Nº	Task Two	Puntos
Speaker 1	21		26		/ 2
Speaker 2	22		27		/ 2
Speaker 3	23		28		/ 2
Speaker 4	24		29		/ 2
Speaker 5	25		30		/ 2
				Total	/ 10

SOLUCIONES

1 punto por acierto. Después de la clave rápida va la transcripción, con la frase que da cada respuesta en negrita y el número de la pregunta. Para cada hablante se explica la clave de cada tarea y por qué no valen las opciones que roza, con su tipo (§4) y la cita que las descarta. Al final, por qué sobran las tres opciones restantes de cada lista. Los números de sección remiten a LST_Teoria_v1.

Clave rápida

Hablante	Task One	Task Two
Speaker 1	21 • F having to argue the opposite case for work	26 • D as reasonable, given what they knew at the time
Speaker 2	22 • G a casual remark from a child	27 • B as an embarrassing display of certainty
Speaker 3	23 • A seeing the effects of their view at first hand	28 • F as partly right, but held for the wrong reasons
Speaker 4	24 • E a slow build-up of minor doubts	29 • A as something that still has a hold on them
Speaker 5	25 • D the success of someone they disliked	30 • E as something they can laugh about

Transcripción

Voces · 1: Connor, inglés irlandés · 2: Ava, inglés norteamericano · 3: Mitchell, inglés neozelandés · 4: Natasha, inglés australiano · 5: Sonia, inglés británico

Speaker 1 For years I wrote about zoos as if they were prisons with gift shops. Then my editor handed me a feature making the case for them [21] – precisely because she knew I'd hate it, I suspect – and somewhere in the research my certainty just quietly came apart. There wasn't one knock-down argument, mind you; nobody said anything I couldn't have answered. People seem to expect me to cringe at my old columns. I don't, really. Given the only footage I'd ever seen, it was a perfectly sensible thing to believe. [26] I'd simply never had to look any further.

Speaker 2 I cringe now when I think how I used to hold forth at dinner parties [27] about novels being a waste of time – so sure of myself, so pleased with my own seriousness. My father had always said fiction was for people with nothing better to do, and I suppose some of that rubbed off. But what actually shifted things was my daughter [22], who was about seven, asking in passing why I only read books that were 'true', as if the made-up ones were lying. I laughed it off. It stuck, though. My husband finds the whole episode hilarious. I'm afraid I don't.

Speaker 3 I was convinced organic farming was a luxury for people who didn't have to make a living from the land. People assume I'd been reading the wrong studies. I hadn't been reading any. Then we had the dry summer of twenty eighteen, and I stood at the fence watching my neighbour's fields [23] – the organic ones – hold on to their moisture while mine turned to dust. Funnily enough, I still think I was half right [28]: the yields often are lower. But I believed it because I didn't want to change, not because of any numbers. [28] Do I miss the old certainty? Not in the slightest.

Speaker 4 I taught piano for twenty years believing you either had it or you didn't. I'd heard all the arguments about practice and could brush them aside without a second thought. There wasn't a moment that changed it – it was more like water on stone. [24] A boy I'd written off who suddenly blossomed, then another; a book here, a remark there; until one morning I realised I didn't believe it any more. And yet, if I'm honest, when a gifted child walks in, the old voice still whispers [29] 'that's the real thing'. I'm not ashamed of it. I just don't think it ever entirely goes away. [29]

Speaker 5 I find it rather funny now, the lengths I went to. [30] My team certainly does – they had a mug made with my old slogan on it: 'Out of sight, out of mind.' I used to say it at every single meeting. I was utterly convinced that anyone working from home would do half the work and spend the rest of the day in the garden. The person who changed that was a colleague I frankly couldn't stand [25] – arrogant, never in the office – whose team, infuriatingly, kept outperforming mine [25]. I went through his figures looking for the trick. There wasn't one. Grateful to him? Let's not get carried away.

Explicaciones

Speaker 1 · 21 F · 26 D

Task One · F having to argue the opposite case for work
Correcta. Le encargaron defender los zoos (my editor handed me a feature making the case for them), y al documentarse my certainty just quietly came apart.

No es B an argument they were unable to answer (mencionado y descartado §4.2). There wasn't one knock-down argument, mind you; nobody said anything I couldn't have answered.

Task Two · D as reasonable, given what they knew at the time
Correcta. Given the only footage I'd ever seen, it was a perfectly sensible thing to believe. Era una opinión razonable con la información que tenía: I'd simply never had to look any further.

No es B as an embarrassing display of certainty (mencionado y descartado §4.2). No se avergüenza: People seem to expect me to cringe at my old columns. I don't, really.

No es C as a source of material for their work (eco léxico §4.1, ausente §4.8). Habla de my old columns, pero no dice que aquella opinión le sirva ahora de material.

Teoría: §2.3 Señales del discurso oral · §8.1 Part 4: la tarea · §4.2 Mencionado y descartado · §2.4 Matización · §3.3 La segunda idea manda · §8.3 Trampas propias

Speaker 2 · 22 G · 27 B

Task One · G a casual remark from a child
Correcta. what actually shifted things was my daughter: una pregunta de pasada de una niña de siete años. I laughed it off. It stuck, though.

No es H realising they had absorbed the view from a parent (no responde §4.3). La influencia del padre explica de dónde venía la opinión (some of that rubbed off), no qué la hizo cambiar (§8.3).

Task Two · B as an embarrassing display of certainty
Correcta. La tarea 2 se resuelve antes que la 1 (§8.1): I cringe now when I think how I used to hold forth at dinner parties, so sure of myself. Le avergüenza la seguridad con que lo defendía.

No es E as something they can laugh about (voz equivocada §4.4). Quien se ríe es su marido: My husband finds the whole episode hilarious. I'm afraid I don't.

Teoría: §2.3 Señales del discurso oral · §8.3 Trampas propias · §4.3 Cierto, pero no responde · §8.1 Part 4: la tarea · §4.4 Voz equivocada · §3.2 Voz propia y voces ajenas

Speaker 3 · 23 A · 28 F

Task One · A seeing the effects of their view at first hand
Correcta. Lo vio con sus propios ojos: I stood at the fence watching my neighbour's fields conservar la humedad mientras los suyos turned to dust.

No es C finding out that the evidence had been misrepresented (mencionado y descartado §4.2). People assume I'd been reading the wrong studies. I hadn't been reading any.

Task Two · F as partly right, but held for the wrong reasons
Correcta. I still think I was half right (los rendimientos suelen ser menores), But I believed it because I didn't want to change, not because of any numbers. Acertaba en parte, pero por malas razones.

No es A as something that still has a hold on them (mencionado y descartado §4.2). Do I miss the old certainty? Not in the slightest.

Teoría: §8.1 Part 4: la tarea · §4.2 Mencionado y descartado · §3.3 La segunda idea manda · §8.3 Trampas propias

Speaker 4 · 24 E · 29 A

Task One · E a slow build-up of minor doubts
Correcta. There wasn't a moment that changed it – it was more like water on stone. Pequeñas dudas que se acumulan (a book here, a remark there) hasta que un día ya no lo cree.

No es B an argument they were unable to answer (mencionado y descartado §4.2). Los argumentos no la convencían: could brush them aside without a second thought.

Task Two · A as something that still has a hold on them
Correcta. And yet anuncia el matiz: ante un niño con talento, the old voice still whispers, y I just don't think it ever entirely goes away. La antigua idea aún tira de ella.

No es B as an embarrassing display of certainty (mencionado y descartado §4.2). I'm not ashamed of it.

Teoría: §8.1 Part 4: la tarea · §4.2 Mencionado y descartado · §2.3 Señales del discurso oral · §3.3 La segunda idea manda · §8.3 Trampas propias

Speaker 5 · 25 D · 30 E

Task One · D the success of someone they disliked
Correcta. The person who changed that was a colleague I frankly couldn't stand, cuyo equipo trabajaba desde casa y whose team, infuriatingly, kept outperforming mine.

No es C finding out that the evidence had been misrepresented (mencionado y descartado §4.2). Buscó trampa en las cifras y no la había: I went through his figures looking for the trick. There wasn't one.

Task Two · E as something they can laugh about
Correcta. Lo dice en la primera frase, antes de la respuesta de la tarea 1 (§8.1): I find it rather funny now, the lengths I went to.

No es G with gratitude to the person who challenged it (mencionado y descartado §4.2). Grateful to him? Let's not get carried away.

Teoría: §8.1 Part 4: la tarea · §4.2 Mencionado y descartado · §8.3 Trampas propias

Opciones que sobran

Task One

B an argument they were unable to answer
Speaker 1 dice que no hubo ningún argumento definitivo (There wasn't one knock-down argument) y Speaker 4 rebatía sin esfuerzo los que oía (could brush them aside without a second thought).

C finding out that the evidence had been misrepresented
Speaker 3 no leía estudios (I hadn't been reading any) y Speaker 5 buscó el truco en las cifras sin encontrarlo: There wasn't one.

H realising they had absorbed the view from a parent
Speaker 2 admite la influencia de su padre (I suppose some of that rubbed off), pero como origen de su opinión, no como lo que la hizo cambiar.

Task Two

C as a source of material for their work
Speaker 1 es columnista y menciona sus artículos antiguos, pero no dice que aquella opinión le dé ahora material; habla de cómo la juzga: a perfectly sensible thing to believe.

G with gratitude to the person who challenged it
Speaker 5 lo rechaza con ironía: Grateful to him? Let's not get carried away.

H as typical of people of their age
Nadie relaciona su antigua opinión con su edad o su generación. Speaker 1 la justifica por lo que había visto, no por lo que pensaba la gente de su edad.